The Jamahiriya Museum CCTV Control Room, Tripoli

Scope

Full design and fit out package including:
Display wall
Control Console

The Jamahiriya Museum in the heart of Tripoli is an excellent museum in all respects. Both the exhibits and the presentation make this one of the finest museums in the world.

Having originally been introduced to the security installation company to provide the control room consoles, Intech were able to offer a full turnkey package for the control room once the client knew this service was available. All of the materials were shipped from the UK and Intech sent their installation team to complete the fit out. The fit out consisting of the, decoration, suspended ceiling, electrics, carpeting and all associated furniture. From start to completion the installation team were on site for just four weeks.

Once the project was handed over and approved by UNESCO, Intech were then given the opportunity to design twenty guesthouse control rooms. Each of the control consoles would oversee the security for luxury Government villas based in Tripoli. The main problem arose when the handover date was issued and that gave a complete turnaround time from the design stage to completion in 8 weeks prior to any designs being issued. On completion and approval of the designs Intech had three weeks to manufacture all twenty control consoles leaving sufficient time for all goods to be crated and shipped, and installed within the allocated time frame.
